Prediction plot after 10 epochs:

The green line is what the model predicted using the most recent 20% of the data. It is a measure of stock price over time where time is represented by the number of test data points.